

It's time to think about getting your child Nursery ready.

Can your child use the toilet independently or with little help?

Does your child rely on a dummy or other things that they would struggle without during the day?

Is your child used to interacting with other children and do they know how to share toys and play together?

Does your child try to put on their coat independently?

Can your child use words to communicate and follow simple instructions?

Does your child separate from you without distress?

Does your child enjoy listening to stories and talking about stories they have read?
